

WISCONSIN
PARTNERS

FOR CLEAN AIR

Air Quality Advisory

Today

The Air Quality Index is currently (or expected) to reach the Unhealthy for Sensitive Groups (orange) level within the region. Those most at risk are children, elderly, active adults and people with respiratory disease. People in these groups are advised to reschedule or cut back on strenuous outside activities. Help make a difference during an Air Quality Advisory by doing any of the following...

- Reduce driving or use transportation alternatives when possible.
- Don't idle vehicle engines.
- Postpone activities that use small gasoline and diesel engines.
- Avoid burning wood or brush.
- Conserve electricity.

To view air quality information in your area, visit

Wisconsin's Current Air Quality

<http://airquality.wi.gov>